What is the Post-2015 Development Agenda?

- 2015 refers to the year that the current Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) will expire and a new global agenda will be adopted.
- Aims to be an agenda that builds on the strengths of the MDGs, but also addresses their shortfalls, “the unfinished business” and neglected issues and new challenges;
- Process should be more inclusive of various stakeholders (Civil Society, Government, UN, Private Sector and Business, Academia, Citizens);
- Numerous processes leading to 2015 (e.g. Open Working Group on SDGs, UN Task Team, High Level Panel, “Global Conversation”) that needs to be integrated to one process.

- 2nd UNDG Report: “Million Voices: The World We Want” (Sep 2013)
- UN Secretary General’s Post2015 Report (Sep 2013)

Convergence of messages and principles

- Build on the MDGs and complete unfinished business
- Focus on elimination of extreme poverty and reducing inequalities
- Sustainable development shall be at the heart of the agenda
- Good governance and accountability must be addressed
- Goals and targets shall be aspirational, universal, simple, measurable, time bound and easy to communicate
- Partnerships and innovation is key to identify and deliver on the agenda
- We need a dedicated water goal

What can we expect from the Special event on MDGs next week

- Renewed call for acceleration for meeting the MDGs
- Call for a single post-2015 process
- Clarification of the process and road ahead
- A UNSG report synthesizing all efforts in the beginning of UNGA 69 in 2014
- Intergovernmental negotiations on content at the beginning of UNGA 69 in 2014
- Summit in September 2015 to adopt the new agenda
- Call on a transparent process including inputs from all stakeholders
